Preferred Citation note

Libbie Bodle letter, University Libraries Division of Special Collections, The University of Alabama
Biographical/Historical note

Libbie Bodle lived in Cuddebackville, New York, in 1865.

Scope and Contents note

A letter from Libbie Bodle of Cuddebackville, New York, to Emma Green in May 1865, discussing friends and the departure of the preacher, Mr. Winter. Bodle tells Green that Mr. Winter is preparing his farewell sermon after Mr. Rose found fault in a funeral sermon he preached for the President. Bodle says that Mr. Winter has "left us to our destruction, he did preach rather a mean sermon but you could expect nothing else of a Copperhead." There is also a fabric swatch (brown with blue striping) pinned to a two-inch disc.
